Dedication

To everyone on the journey to becoming a U.S. citizen — your dedication, patience, and hope inspired this book. This workbook is for every future citizen studying late at night, practicing English out loud, and believing in a better future. You've got this.

A Note from the Author

I built the website passuscivics.com and wrote this workbook to make studying for the naturalization test feel less stressful. Every question and practice sentence here follows the official USCIS study materials, and I wrote the interview sections to reflect how the interview actually works, so the day itself feels familiar instead of frightening. I hope this book helps you the way I wish something like it had helped people I love on their own path to citizenship.

How to Use This Workbook

Test Overview

USCIS naturalization applicants take two tests: an English test (reading, writing, and speaking) and a civics test (U.S. history and government). Which civics test you take depends on the date you filed Form N-400. If you filed on or after October 20, 2025, you take the 2025 civics test: the officer asks 20 questions out of 128 possible questions, and you need 12 correct to pass. If you filed before October 20, 2025, you take the 2008 civics test: the officer asks up to 10 questions out of 100 possible questions, and you need 6 correct to pass. This workbook has complete practice material for both tests. On the 2025 test, the officer may stop asking questions early once you have 12 correct answers or 9 wrong answers. If you are 65 or older and have been a permanent resident for 20 or more years, you can study just 20 questions instead of the full list — USCIS marks these with a star (*), and the officer asks you 10 of them (you need 6 correct). The starred questions are also gathered into one “65/20 Quick List” at the start of Part 6 and Part 7. The names in the answers (President, Vice President, Speaker of the House, Chief Justice) are correct as of August 2026; the Speaker of the House may change when a new Congress starts in January 2027. Test questions and answers can change, so always check uscis.gov/citizenship for the most current information before your interview.

Suggested 8-Week Study Plan

When	What to Do
Week 1	Read the N-400 Interview Prep questions (Part 1). Focus on understanding, not memorizing.
Week 2	Read the Mock Interview Script (Part 2) out loud.
Weeks 3–4	Work through Reading Practice and Writing Practice (Parts 3 & 4) a little each day.
Week 5	Study the Vocabulary & Word Bank (Part 5), then reinforce it with the puzzles and activities in Part 9.
Weeks 6–7	Take 2–3 timed Practice Tests (Parts 6 & 7) under real interview conditions.
Week 8	Take the full simulated exams and mock interview in Part 8, then review your Error Analysis Sheets.

How This Book Is Organized

Parts 1–2 get you ready for the N-400 interview, with a realistic practice script. Parts 3–4 build your reading and writing skills using real test sentences. Part 5 is a full vocabulary glossary. Parts 6–7 give you 20 complete practice tests with answer keys, covering both the 100-question and 128-question civics tests. Part 8 puts it all together with full practice exams, a fill-in-the-blank mock interview, and Error Analysis Sheets so you can track your progress. Part 9 helps you review the vocabulary glossary with matching games and fill-in-the-blank puzzles. USCIS sometimes words the same answer two different ways in the two test versions — for example, “the Constitution” in the 100-question material and “(U.S.) Constitution” in the 128-question material. Both are correct. Just use the wording that matches your test version.

Tips to Help You Pass

These tips come from how the real interview works. Read them before you start studying. Then read them again the week before your interview.

Tips for the Interview

Your answers must match your N-400 form. The officer has your Form N-400 on the desk. They will read your answers back to you and ask you to say if they are correct. Keep a copy of your form and read it again before you go, so you remember what you wrote. If something has changed — a new job, a new address, a new trip, a new child — tell the officer. Changes are normal. Hiding a change is the problem.

The small talk is already part of the test. There is no special moment when the English speaking test begins. From the first “Good morning, how are you today?” the officer is already listening to your English. So answer in full sentences, not just “Yes” or “Fine.” Say “Good morning. I am well, thank you.” This is why Part 2 of this book starts with greeting and small talk. Practice that part out loud too — do not skip it.

Answer only the question the officer asks. If the officer asks “Have you ever been arrested?”, answer that question. Do not tell a long story. Short, true, and complete is best. Extra details only lead to extra questions.

It is okay to ask the officer to repeat. If you do not understand, say: “I’m sorry, could you repeat that, please?” or “Could you say that a different way, please?” This is allowed, and officers hear it every day. It is much better than guessing at a question you did not hear.

Always tell the truth. You take an oath at the start of the interview. A wrong answer can be fixed. A lie cannot. Some “Yes” answers are not automatic problems — but hiding them is a serious problem. If you are worried about any answer on your form, talk to an immigration lawyer before your interview, not during it.

Tips for Studying

Practice out loud, not in your head. The officer scores how you speak. Reading quietly does not practice speaking. Say every answer out loud, even when you are alone. Record yourself on your phone and listen. You will hear what to fix.

Learn the idea, not just the sounds. Officers do not always use the same words as this book. “Who is the Commander in Chief?” and “Who is in charge of the military?” want the same answer: the President. If you understand the idea, you can answer any wording. If you only memorize sounds, one new word can stop you.

One correct answer is enough. Many answers in this book give you several choices, separated by a semicolon (;). You do not need to say all of them. Pick the one that is easiest for you to remember and say, and use that same one every time.

A little every day beats a lot once a week. Fifteen minutes each day will teach you more than three hours on Sunday. Use the 8-Week Study Plan in “How to Use This Workbook” to keep going at a steady speed.

Check the current officials before you go. Some answers change over time: the President, the Vice President, your state’s U.S. Senators, your Representative, the Speaker of the House, the Chief Justice, and your Governor. Check them at uscis.gov/citizenship/testupdates a few days before your interview.

Tips for Interview Day

Bring these documents with you:

- ☐ Your interview appointment notice
- ☐ Your green card (Permanent Resident Card)
- ☐ All of your passports — current and expired
- ☐ Your state ID or driver's license
- ☐ Anything else your appointment notice asks you to bring (for example: marriage or divorce papers, tax records, or court papers)

Arrive early. Plan for traffic and for parking. Try to arrive 30 minutes before your appointment time. Arriving calm helps your English.

Turn your phone off. Do this before you go into the interview room, not after it rings.

Dress neatly. Dress the way you would for a job interview. You do not need a suit. Clean and tidy is enough.

Speak slowly and clearly. You do not need perfect English and you do not need to lose your accent. The officer needs to understand you — that is all. Slower is clearer.

If you do not pass everything the first time, you get a second chance. USCIS will test you again on only the part you did not pass. They schedule it 60 to 90 days after your first interview. So one hard day is not the end. Keep this book and keep practicing.

Mistakes to Avoid

Do not stay silent when you are confused. Silence looks like you did not understand the English. Asking the officer to repeat shows that you did.

Do not memorize words you do not understand. If you learn only the sound of an answer, you will lose it as soon as the officer changes one word in the question.

Do not forget your trips outside the United States. The officer will ask about your travel. Before you go, write down every trip using the stamps and dates in your passport. Guessing at dates in the interview looks careless.

Do not forget to report a new address. If you moved after you filed Form N-400, you must tell USCIS — usually within 10 days of moving, using Form AR-11. Do not wait for the interview to mention it.

Do not study only the civics questions. Many people pass civics and then struggle with reading, writing, or speaking. Give time to Parts 3 and 4 as well, and read your practice sentences out loud.

Do not rely on old answers you learned from a friend. Test versions and officeholders change. Use the test version that matches your N-400 filing date, and check uscis.gov/citizenship before your interview.

Remember: the officer is not trying to fail you. They ask these questions every day, and they want you to succeed. Prepare well, tell the truth, and speak up when you need help.

U.S. Citizenship Journey Roadmap

These are the main steps to becoming a citizen. How long each step takes is different for every person — check your own case status on the USCIS website for your exact dates.

Step	Milestone	What Happens
1	Check Your Eligibility	Confirm you meet residency, age, and moral character requirements (see Quick Reference checklist).
2	File Form N-400	Send in your Application for Naturalization (Form N-400) online or by mail, with the documents and fee you need.
3	Attend Biometrics (if required)	USCIS sets up an appointment to take your fingerprints and photo for a background check. Sometimes USCIS already has this information on file and skips this appointment.
4	Study & Prepare	Use this workbook to prepare for the civics, reading, and writing tests, and the interview.
5	Attend Your Interview	A USCIS officer looks over your application and gives you the English and civics tests.
6	Receive a Decision	USCIS decides to approve, continue, or deny your application — usually the same day, or later by mail.
7	Take the Oath of Allegiance	Attend your Oath ceremony — the final step to becoming a U.S. citizen.
8	Become a U.S. Citizen!	Receive your Certificate of Naturalization. Congratulations!
